DR. INGRAHAM'S MACEDONIAN OIL

The only great curative agent upon general principles of a compound oil ever sold in the United States or in the world. There are many preparations effered called Oils, which are not Oils, but only cheap Etheral compounds. The Macedonian compound is an Oil, and has demonstrated itself to be the greatest wonder of the 19th century. No one hundred remedies combined have one-half the curative properties possessed by the Macedonian, even though advertised for the same purpose.

HEAVEN'S CHILD. Very well; my orders are to see BY J. WILLIAM POPE. this placed in your hands, and that done I may as well be off."

Sweet music is a child of heaven, But gates could not confine her there: And though no wings to her were given She wafts herself upon the air Tween earth and skies, yet holds her place Where cherubs harp and scraphs sing: The plowman's cot she deigns to grace As well as palace of the king.

Within that world where music reigns What is it with her can compare? Before the Throne her brightest strain Are cast, to burn and sparkle there: Her robe is harmony of sound, Her crown the richest gems of song, The highest angel ne'er hath found A garb more powerful and strong The breath of music is a balan Which penetrates the immost soul, And bids the troubled heart be calm,

The beast is docile 'neath her char She calls the peaceful man to arms. And soothes him in his dying hour I also pay as good a price for produce, in cash r trade, as the market will allow. And Theo. Thurston laughed softly to himself as he listened to this little chat among his sisters As he counted upon his fingers the articles desired, he resolved that his little Letty should have her faitl strengthened by a literal answer to each petition. He had but lately learned how pleasant it is to go to our Father in heaven and spread al our wants before him, and he longed to have all his sisters, both big and little, learn the same sweet lesson. But where was he, a poor young lad to get the money for all those pur-chases? Ah! that is his own glad secret! For several weeks he has been working beyond the regular business hours, and the money for this work is to be paid him the day before Thanksgiving. It is thus honestly his, to hold or to spend as he pleases. No one at home knows of it-not even his mother-and now he is glad of this, for he can set them all to wondering and guess ing where in the world their thanks giving turkey could have come from How completely taken by surprise they were when-on the afternoon before Thanksgiving—an express man called at their door with a pack age, on which was written in a plain

"For Mrs. Thurston, a thanks giving turkey. To be delivered at No. 204 — Street." Accompanying it was a note which aid: "The express charges are all paid, you have only to receive the turkey, which we hope will prove as nice as it seems to promise. "There is some mistake here," said Mrs. Thurston; "I have not or dered any thanksgiving turkey." "Then somebody else has ordered it for you and saved you the trouble. You are Mrs. Thurston, and you live at No. 201 - Street."
